

Good research starts with a question.

Prepare your study, collect responses and export results for further analysis. In one focused workspace.

The actual Sondara editor. A synthetic example study.

Shape your study

Organize questions and sessions. Configure branching and preview the flow before publishing.

Collect responses

Invite participants by email or share a study link according to your access settings.

Work with your results

Follow completion and export responses as CSV. Continue the analysis with your own tools.

For researchers and teams running survey studies.

Sondara brings study preparation, participation and response export into one workspace. Core surveys work without paid integrations. The application interface is in English.

Could Sondara fit your next study?

Tell us what you are planning. Researcher accounts are provided by invitation. Contact us to try the researcher and participant demo accounts. The shared demo workspace is for synthetic data only.

sondara@thingcraft.com

sondara.org